MARCH 29, 1877. Mr. H. C. Clark, a citizen of Prince George county, but doing business in this city, was very seriously, if not fatally, injured on Sycamore street this morning by a talling sign-board. As he was passing in front of Mr. William F. Spotsstore a large sign-board was blown from the wall of the secondstory of that building, which struck Mr. Clark on the head in its fall. A ghastly wound some four or five inches long was reduced on the scalp, and Mr. Clark was snocked senseless. He was taken into Mr. Spotswood's store, where physicians were called to see him, and restoratives administered. After some time he revived sufficiently to admit of his being sent home. It is thought the skull was fractured. The anxious to see the great southerner. Where- the subject of Louisiana affairs he stated to wender is that he was not instantly killed.
